1. We are pleased to inform you that the latest face-to-face project meeting took place successfully in Limassol, Cyprus, on the 19th and 20th June 2025. The meeting was hosted by CTL EUROCOLLEGE and brought together representatives from all participating countries. It was a valuable opportunity to review the project's progress, share experiences, and plan the next steps.

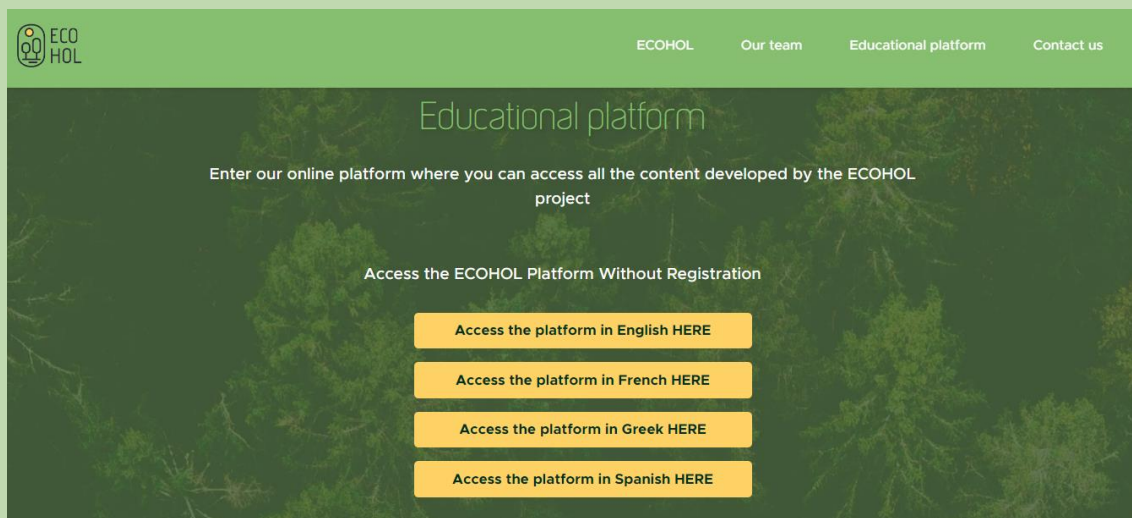

2. We are thrilled to announce that the ECOHOL platform is now officially live and open to the public in English, French, Greek and Spanish!

The platform is designed to support eco-conscious entrepreneurship and sustainable business practices through interactive learning and practical tools tailored for adult learners and professionals.

3. The policy roundtables meetings, conducted by all partners, involved over 50 young professionals to actively participate in discussions that explored sustainable tourism and EU environmental values. Through open dialogue and interactive training sessions, they deepened their understanding of European institutions and collaboratively shaped proposals for greener practices in the tourism sector. These rich discussions led to the creation of a policy document, offering concrete recommendations to EU institutions and laying the groundwork for future sustainability-focused initiatives.

4. Since July, some partners of the ECOHOL project have started showcasing the project in multiplier event and national conferences.

All great occasion to meet with young entrepreneurs, students evolving in the field of tourism, policy makers and people from the tourism industry.

It was also a great field based way to present the project and its deliverables, and to collect feedback directly from stakeholders.

For the participants it was a great occasion to network among each other and discover a european project.

5. All above brings us one step closer to empowering entrepreneurs and communities to lead the green transition. The project is successfully introducing young professionals to the concept of sustainable tourism, using the ECOHOL training material and real-life examples to showcase its potential impact on local, national, and European levels. As a result, participants gained a fresh perspective on how sustainable development can reshape the tourism industry. Please follow three key outcomes of EcoHol project:

- ❖ a practical handbook on sustainable tourism practices,
- ❖ an innovative online platform,
- ❖ and a comprehensive policy recommendation report.
